TIME EXTENDED FOR PAYMENT OF TAXES.COMPTROLLER AND GOVERNOR AL-LOW UNTIL MARCH 1.Order Issued at Last Moment—Why the Extension Has Been Granted—Statement of This Year's Valuation of Property.

[The State, Dec. 31st.]

The time for the payment of taxes has been extended after all, though it was not known even to the county treasurers until after the regular time for the payment of taxes had expired. So it cannot be said that any who expected to pay their taxes and avoid the penalty were given the chance to delay.

The Comptroller General and the Governor acting under the law issued the following order of extension yesterday at 1 o'clock, and notices were at once sent the treasurers so as to prevent them from making up their delinquent statements:

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 30, 1901.

Pursuant to section 610 of the revised statutes authorizing the Comptroller General, with the approval of the Governor, to extend the time for the payment of taxes, we have this day extended the time for the payment of taxes, which expires on December 31, 1901, without penalty until March 1, 1902.

J. P. Derham,
Comptroller General.

Approved.

M. B. McSweeney,
Governor.

The withholding of action until the last moment was due to the fact that large taxpayers who were able to pay had been holding back, and the State and county treasurers were in need of funds.

Many of the auditors have reported that the "hard year" on the farmers has very seriously affected people who have never been known to fail to pay their taxes on time. Some of the auditors wrote the comptroller that not half of the taxes had been paid in up to a few days ago in their respective counties. Those given the right to extend the time took the view that this had been a hard year indeed and that the poorer property owners really needed the extension; they took the view also that even were the extension not now given the legislature, soon to convene, would grant an extension. The order allows an extension of 60 days, and at present none can see the necessity of an extension for a longer period.

There was quite a rush at the office of the county treasurer of Richland yesterday, but it was not so great as on the last day in recent years.

VALUATION OF PROPERTY.

The final figures for this year showing the valuation of all property in the State for taxation are interesting in connection.

The figures are as follows for this year:

Real estate.....	$103,258,440
Personal.....	59,030,424
Railroad.....	27,044,243
Total.....	$189,333,107

The figures for 1900 were as follows:

Real estate.....	$102,148,427
Personal.....	52,008,890
Railroad.....	25,859,272
Total.....	$179,514,589

This shows a handsome increase for this year, it being $9,818,577.

SKETCHES OF ARMY LIFE.

Interesting Incidents of the Civil War Related by "X Con. Fed." a Member of Third S. C. Regiment.

[Written for The Herald and News.]

On the morning of the 18th day of December, 1862, Lee's anvil was in position and Burnside's hammer ready to strike. There was a fog over Fredericksburg for some time, but it finally cleared up, and Burnside's boys rushed forward to the slaughter pen. The 3rd Regiment was on Lee's Hill near the telegraph road, but were finally carried down it and up the hill to Mayree's house. Here the rain of shot and shell was terrific. It did not look as if any one could live. Instead of hurrying us to the rock wall, we were ordered to lie down just over the slope towards the enemy. I was severely wounded at once by a rifle ball, and hobbled back to a garden place and remained there for an hour or two with the shells bursting over me, but I was not hurt. Every man in Co. B. except 4 or 5 were hurt that day. One of the exceptions was a man who had managed to keep out of every fight before this. Capt. Gary told that man if he ran that day he would be court martialed and shot. He managed to get in the fight, and all his fear was gone. He fought as a hero that day, and from then until he lost his arm a year later, we did not have a better soldier. Although I was severely wounded and in danger of being killed for several hours, I had a good deal of fun. I saw a captain and lieutenant of another regiment desert their men and spurt across the hill to the rear. I saw a young soldier cry because I told some men where their regiment was, and told them they ought to carry the rations they had to their men. They were in cooking detail, and had rations for their mess. I saw the same soldier and his father spurt across the hill. A lull finally came in the firing, and I buckled a strap around my thigh just above the wound and got me a big corn stalk for a stick and hobbled across the field and got out of the firing. Here I found a great many wounded men and quite a number of skulkers. Night finally came and Col. Nance was wounded. He and Lieut. Abernathy were being placed in an ambulance to be carried to the rear. I asked Maj. Maffett to let me get in also. The driver objected but Maj. Maffett put me in the ambulance and I was carried to the field hospital. Here I was placed on the ground to await my time to have my wound dressed. I rolled myself up in a blanket and went to sleep. I woke up about 9 o'clock the next morning and finally got my wounds dressed. I was placed in an ambulance and carried to the rail road and shipped to Richmond. I arrived at Richmond about day light and was carried to the Chimberazo Hospital and placed in the North Carolina division. I was fortunately placed under the care of Dr. John Cannon of our county and was well cared for. Here I found my brother soldier, M. H. Gary. He was furloughed in a few days but I was kept for some time, but was finally given a furlough and remained at home for 100 days. I had forgotten to mention that I had been shot at Savage station in hand and foot, but the wounds were light. While at home I went to Longshore's store to see the militia "muster." Here Mr. T. M. Neel was drilling his squad, and had as his right guide Mr. Nosh Martin. Every time Mr. Neel would say left for the left foot to go down, Uncle Noah would turn to the left, and right he would turn to the right. It was a real picnic to see the boys "muster." Here the man was discussing the Fredericksburg fight. Mr. Washington Floyd made the statement that the Yankees put up a poor fight. I told him he was mistaken that they fought well. He stated that some newspaper man was back some distance in a tree and said they had fought poorly, and asked me what I knew about it. I told him I was there myself. I do not think he believed me but if he had been on Mayree's heights I think he would have changed his opinion.

Advice Plainly Given.

An elderly lady went into a large retail shop in New York just before Christmas, and asked a young woman behind the counter:

"Have you any gold collar buttons?"

The girl surveyed her critically a moment, and seeing an old, plainly dressed woman, without a word, took down a box, shoved it across the counter and indifferently turned away to survey the passers-by.

"These are sleeve buttons," said the customer, gently; "I said collar buttons."

Her accent was not that of an American, and the girl giggled and looked significantly at one of her fellows as she took down another box and pushed it over the counter.

"These are enameled or set with imitation stones. I want plain gold buttons."

"The enameled are the style now."

"I want the plain gold buttons, if you please," said the stranger quietly.

"If you can't find what you want there we haven't got them," said the girl, tossing her head. "Ladies," she said insolently, "are not buying cheap buttons for gifts now. They want the jeweled ones."

The stranger rose.

"They don't suit you? I knew they wouldn't from the first." She turned the lid on the box and turned her back on the customer.

The lady hesitated, and said in a gentle, firm voice: "I might call your employer and tell him how badly his interests are served by you. But I am sorry for you, and I am going, instead, to waste a little plain common sense on you."

"I came from England. So did you. You would have waited on me humbly there for one-third of the wages you are paid here. Your purpose now is to show each customer that you think you 'are as good as she is.' That is probably the cause of your rudeness just now. You may be as good or better than I. But that is not what your employer pays you to show to me. He pays you to show me his buttons. The more civil and attentive you are the more buttons you will sell, and the more you will earn. That is your one chance to better your condition."

She went out. The girl looked after her flushed and angry.

"Do you know what that woman is?" she asked a saleswoman who was passing.

"That is Lady Dash," naming a well-known noblewoman, who is a leader in several international reforms. "Why? What was she saying to you?"

The girl hesitated. "She was trying to show me what a fool I have been, and I think she did it," she candidly.

The Honest Bootblack.

"Shine, sir?"

"Yes; I want my shoes blacked."

"Then I would be glad to shine them, sir," said the boy.

"Have I time to catch the Hudson River train?"

"No time to lose, sir; but I can give you a good job before it pulls out. Shall I?"

"Yes, my boy; don't let me be left."

In two seconds the bootblack was on his knees and hard at work.

"The train is going, sir," said he, as he gave the last touch. The man gave him a half a dollar and started for the train. The boy counted out the change and ran after his patron, but was too late, for the train had gone.

Two years later the same man, on coming to New York, met the bootblack, but had forgotten him. The boy remembered his former customer, and asked him:

"Didn't I shine your shoes once in the Grand Central Depot?"

"Some boy did," said the man. "I am that boy, and here is your change, sir."

The gentleman was so pleased with the lad's honesty that he went with him to see his mother, and offered to adopt him, as he needed such a boy. The mother consented, and the honest bootblack had after that a good home. He was given a good education, and when a man became a partner in his friend's large business.—Farmer's Advocate.

Industries in This State.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The census bureau's preliminary report on the manufactures of South Carolina shows a total of 3,762 establishments with products in 1900 valued at $58,748,475.

Other figures are: Average number of wage earners 48,135; total wages $14,955,900; miscellaneous expenses $3,111,587, and cost of material used $34,027,795.

The capital shows an increase of 130 per cent, over 1890 and value of products an increase of 84 per cent. The cost of materials increased 80 per cent.

The city of Charleston separately reported, has a total of $12,473,187 in capital invested, and $9,562,387 in value of products. These are increases of 70 and 6 per cent, respectively. Charleston has 364 establishments, 5,027 wage earners, getting a total of $1,489,066 in wages. The miscellaneous expenses foot up $798,573, and cost of materials used $5,633,578.

Animal's Voices.

The roar of the lion, it is said, can be heard farther than the sound of any living creature. Next comes the hyena, then the screech owl, the panther, and the jackal in succession. The donkey can be heard fifty times farther than the dog. Strange, the quiet and timid hare, when she cries in fear, can be heard farther off than either dog or cat.
